Student at Keio University

Mako is a GCI Ambassador of 2015 currently studying Law as an undergraduate at Keio University. During her nine stimulating days at the Global Citizens Youth Summit, she had the privilege to meet some of the brightest students from around the world and attend lectures by world-renowned professors and speakers. Seeing her peers always think about how they can make their community a better place encouraged her to challenge herself by being actively involved in her high school community. She is honored and excited to be involved in the GCI community as a member of the Ambassador Advisory Council.
